

RICHMOND-IRVINE ROAD WORK STARTS

County Has Received Steel For Bridges, And Uncle Sam Lends Trucks

Work on the Richmond-Irvine road, which has been retarded somewhat owing to the lack of materials, is being resumed with the arrival Tuesday of the steel work for the bridges and culverts. This steel is for reinforcement purposes and was procured after considerable difficulty, owing to labor conditions, and shipping facilities. County Road Engineer June Baxter, who has charge of the work, believes that the big task will be completed this season, despite the critical condition of the labor field.

There will be about $75,000 expended upon this improvement and when the work is completed, the highway will be one of the best to be found in this state, since the improvement includes grading and leveling to a degree and the establishment of new bridges and culverts. A distance of eight miles will be treated to this improvement on the much used road. The crushed stone will be procured in Madison county and some of it near the road, which is said to be partly composed of the finest grade of sandstone for road purposes. This material will be hauled in large trucks instead of by teams, thus doing away with many men and teams. The trucks are being loaned to the county by the government, this being federal work, and the stone will be crushed and provided for the road by the latest mode.

Mr. Baxter said Tuesday that the highway would be finished under the supervision or inspection of the state, but the work was being done by the county principally. The bridges and culverts, when completed will defy the heaviest loads, since there will be added strength in the way of crushed stone and cement, reinforcing the steel parts of the structures. This combination will wear for a decade, it is claimed, but few localities have the excellent combination of stone, sand, etc., with which to provide the walls.

Working crews will doubtless be started this week, since the arrival of the steel is announced and there is a goodly supply of trucks with which to begin the work. The county will have the use of three or more trucks they being loaned for the work, the county paying the expense of shipping from Chicago. One of them however, a big Kelly-Springfield truck, with a capacity of three and one-half tons, was procured from Frankfort. Ellison Adams of this city was dispatched to the capital city for the truck, and he brought it thru safely. Besides this one, there is a two ton truck which will be used for hauling the crushed stone, as well as another three and one-half ton truck. It is probable that if the work progresses favorably and there is a goodly supply of men that there will be additional trucks added to the list and the work increased. The eight miles of road which are to be improved will fill a long felt want. The improvement has been contemplated for some time and it was only after the county rejected the lowest bids presented and took it up independently, that the change is to come. However, it will represent the most extensive highway improvement in Madison county this year.

COLORED MINSTRELS BEST EVER HERE

The Big Huntington Minstrel Show, a colored organization, playing under tent this season, turned the crowds away at their performance last night, being unable to seat the people who clamored for tickets. The management decided to remain over today and will give another performance tonight with change of program. "Sweet Papa Snow Ball," premier comedian, was the big show, although all members of the troupe deserved special mention. They have a clean show, featuring southern melodies, dancing, and comedy sketches. The band and orchestra was as good as ever came to this city.

FOSTER FOUND SANE BY CIRCUIT JURY

Judge W. K. Price Officiated At Hearing In Absence Of Judge Shackelford

Benjamin Foster, tried in the Madison county circuit court Monday afternoon on a lunacy charge, was dismissed by the jury after short deliberation and declared to be of sound mind. The action was brought at the instigation of Mrs. Foster, who made a number of charges against her husband, among them being a number of alleged cruel incidents. She admitted that her husband acted "queer", and that he drove her and their children from their home and committed other deeds that caused her to be convinced that he was not of his right mind. Foster, who was accompanied by a number of witnesses, spoke of becoming angry at times but denied that he ever did harm to his wife or members of his family. A number of witnesses for the defendant also testified that they had known Foster for a number of years, and that they were not of the belief that he was insane. It is alleged that the Fosters have had more or less domestic trouble for some time.

In the absence of Judge Shackelford, Judge W. K. Price, of the county court officiated, this being in accordance with a change in laws pertaining to cases of this character some time ago.

THE DEMISE OF GILBERT GRINSTEAD

The sad news announcing the death of Mr. Gilbert Grinstead was received here at noon in a message to his father-in-law, Mr. Lyman Parrish. He had been in bad health for the past two years, and it is thought the nature of his illness was never fully understood by his physicians, though he consulted many of the best specialists, having just recently returned from a stay in a Chicago hospital.

He was courageous almost to the last, and even after his devoted wife and sisters had entirely lost hope, he tried to be optimistic as to his condition and made a brave fight against the grim reaper.

Mr. Grinstead made his home in Richmond until about two years ago when he moved with his family to Winchester. He made a lasting friend of everyone whom he met, was a splendid neighbor and citizen in every sense of the word. He married Miss Mossie Parrish, of this city, who survives him. Also a daughter, Dorothy, aged 14, to whom he was devotedly attached, his aged mother, Mrs. W. S. Grinstead, and sisters, Mrs. Walters, Mrs. J. W. Bryant and Miss Antonette Grinstead, of Stanford, Mrs. Harris, of Lancaster, and Mrs. J. H. Turner, of Nicholasville, and one brother, Mr. Fletcher Grinstead, of Cincinnati. Funeral services will take place from the Methodist church in Stanford Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock interment in Stanford cemetery.

CO-OPERATE IN CLEAN-UP WORK

City Health Officer and Chief of Police Will See That Orders Are Effective

Dr. J. G. Bosley, City Health Officer, together with Chief of Police Claud Devore, will co-operate with Mayor Evans, relative to clean-up week, and will assist in having all out of the way places given attention.

It is the intention to make the task a most complete one, since the recent visit of the fire inspector reported in a favorable manner upon the condition of the city. Dr. Bosley is interested in the work as well as other city officials and the co-operation of them all means that the work will be thorough.

"There are many places in the city that need cleaning," said Chief Devore Monday, "and it is my intention to have those responsible, on the job, for the orders of the Mayor are to the effect that no place that needs cleaning will be spared. There are many who allow trash to accumulate, and do not mean to be careless, but there are others who will have to be notified."

REPUBLICANS VOTE IN OHIO TODAY

(By Associated Press) Columbus, Ohio, April 27—Chief interests in today's presidential primary election in Ohio centered in the fight on the Republican ticket between United States Senator Warren G. Harding, of Ohio and Major Leonard Wood.

Governor James M. Cox was unopposed on the Democratic ticket, and all candidates for district delegates to the Democratic National convention were pledged to support Cox.

Fights between Harding and Wood supporters for the district delegates, however, were being waged in all but three of the 32 districts of the state. Wood candidates did not enter in three districts.

national convention, four are Harding men and two are pledged to Wood. Four are to be elected.

Harding campaign managers claim that Harding would carry the state by a substantial vote and that all of the Harding delegates would be successful. Wood leaders said they confidently expected that more than half of the 48 delegates to be selected would be pledged to their candidate.

Because there was no contest on the Democratic ticket, today's vote was expected to be unusually light. Considerable interest was being manifested in the Republican vote in the cities, but there was little apparent interest in the rural communities.

Columbus, O., April 27—Reports from over Ohio indicate a light vote in the Presidential primary election today, as it was expected the heaviest vote would be cast by republicans in the contest between Senator Harding and General Wood.

In the light democratic vote, Governor Cox has no opposition. Some reports indicated that the names of Hiram Johnson and Herbert Hoover are being "written in" republican ballots.

(By Associated Press) New York, April 27—The net profits of the American Woolen Mills Company for the year 1919 were $15,513,415.00, according to the annual report issued today. After paying six million dollars in dividends, and allowing three and a half million dollars for depreciation, a balance of profit for the year was five and three-fourths millions. Unfilled orders, the report says, probably will keep the company's machinery fully employed this year.

The report recites that the year has been successful, the demand for fine wools great, and price increases tremendous.

In the absence of the State Regent, Mrs. Christopher D. Chenault, Kentucky, was represented by Mrs. Caperton, who in placing a small box of soil from Fort Boonesborough, the first fortified station west of the Alleghenies in pioneer days, around the tree to be planted, made a brief address appropriate to the occasion. FOX IS BECOMING VERY PLENTIFUL

Predicted That Old Conditions Will Prevail—Several Dens Near The City

There is a steady increase in the population of the city of Richmond however, there is a noticeable increase in the Fox family, according to the owners of hounds, who are giving the dogs a workout every few nights in this vicinity. Almost every night there is a small chase on, and it was declared by one local man Tuesday that within less than two miles from the city, there is a large den and a family of foxes, comprising Mr. and Mrs. Fox and a "whole lot" of little foxes. "I don't want you to state my name in the paper," said the informant, a well known resident of Richmond, "But" he added, "I want them to flourish, and while I am out nearly every week, I go beyond these, for I think they should not be disturbed at least for a time."

In another direction, three dens are reported within a few miles of the city limits. It is said by those who follow the chase, that there is apparently a decided increase and they predict that the sport of chasing will be better this coming fall than for years. One of the enthusiastic hunters is William Maupin, of this city, who has a number of experienced hounds that are the envy of many. He reports that he has been "out several times lately", and that the canines never fail to find a trail within a short time. He also stated that there were more foxes in evidence this year than for some time.

Alec Parrish, residing eight miles south-east of Richmond, who is also the owner of a kennel of fine hounds, reports that he is shipping a number to other states and that the demand for the Madison county fox hound continues unabated. Mr. Parrish, who is a well known breeder of this specie of hound, is also authority for the statement that foxes are becoming more numerous, and said Monday that the residents of Kentucky were protecting the animals in a manner that would revive hunting and chasing and bring he sport back to the days when it was in its prime in this locality, if they continued doing as they have been. He said that many were incredulous regarding the presence of so many foxes, however, a little investigation would be all that was necessary to convince them that there were more youngsters appearing this spring than for years.

SWIFT'S PRODUCE REVIEW

Marketing and distribution have been further disturbed this week because of embargoes on many railroads. The situation is slowly improving but is still far from normal.

Receipts of eggs at primary markets are still light, and with the exception of Chicago, are generally entering current consumption, while the Chicago market is receiving more eggs than are needed for current use.

It is still difficult to move dairy products to Eastern markets; this is especially true of butter. This situation is causing more and more difference between Chicago and Eastern markets, which no doubt, will adjust itself as quickly as supplies become more plentiful on Eastern markets.

While large supplies of Danish butter were received in United States early in the month, stock has been sold for current use, but on account of the advance in the rate of exchange and larger demand for Danish butter abroad, it is likely there will be further heavy shipments in the near future.
